

Client Mention:	Chicken + Beer
Publication:	AJC Restaurants Blog
Publication Date:	11/17/2016
Reach:	155,524
Headline:	Take a look at the menu for Ludacris' Chicken + Beer, now open at Hartsfield-Jackson
Link:	http://on-ajc.com/2g5nEt6

Take a look at the menu for Ludacris' Chicken + Beer, now open at Hartsfield-Jackson

Yvonne Zusel

Updated November 17, 2016 | Filed in ALERT, atlanta-news-metro.ajc, Dining Out, food.ajc, New restaurants, Restaurant openings, Restaurants, Restaurants & Dining, taxon:fooddrink, things-to-do.ajc, Yvonne Zusel.

Atlanta rapper/actor Ludacris has turned his 2003 album “Chicken-n-Beer” into the namesake for his new restaurant at Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport.

Chicken + Beer opened today in Concourse D, nearly four years after plans for the restaurant were first announced.

The restaurant is a partnership involving Ludacris and Jackmont Hospitality, one of the concessionaires behind the upscale restaurant One Flew South on Concourse E at Hartsfield-Jackson.

Consultants for the restaurant include chef Todd Richards and sommelier Jerry Slater, who were on the opening team for One Flew South.

Luda — aka Chris Bridges — addressed the opening in a raucous video on his Instagram account:

For More Information Contact:

Green Olive Media, LLC.

361 17th Street, Suite 1,

Atlanta, Georgia 30363

404-815-9327

www.greenolivemedia.com